Thinking of Building a Silo? Better Build it

THE construction of a Silo affords an excellent example of what the farmer can do with Concrete and of the superiority of Concrete over all other material for various structural work about the farm.

The usual wooden sile, besides being expensive, is far n satisfactory. In the first place, it does not endure; , more important still—being far from weather-proof s contents become water-logged—producing an unsan-y condition.

A Silo built of Concrete, on the other hand, is practically everlasting—It is proof against heat, cold and noisture—and it has the merit of comparative economy.

This economy feature is further explained in our free book—"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete."—which tells not mixand use Concrete for the making of silos and other buildings on the farm. "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete."

A Happy New Year

This is the first issue of the Pioneer for the year of 1912, and we wish all our readers not only the best of health, wealth and prosperity for the coming year, but we also wish for them a peaceful and contented life as free from the small bickerings and icalousies that so often mar the best of us as is possible in this existence. Let us carry a little of the Christmas spirit which has so lately pervaded us through the whole year, so that the end of Farmers of Alberta, and it is the year we can look back and hoped and expected that there say that we have shown nothing will be a good attendance. Sevbut good will and happiness to eral matters of vital interest to the our tellow men. We do not intended writing a sermon on this because we think that the people in general realize as well as we do that the few words given above touch the farmer, and in fact the are the foundation of the Master's whole community, because they spirit of love to all men.

The new year is big with prom-ise of great things all over the world, and it will be well worth the trouble to us all to keep close watch on the large world events watch on the large world events that are in the making. No to be hoped that the farmers of the doubt when affairs q down again there will be found some astonishing changes made in world matters and it will be interesting and instructive to be able to look back and see the beginning of the changes that may alter the whole trend of human affairs.

. . . . . Didsbury town has also something to look forward to, and in a small way the changes that may take place here through work that is already under way will help to give us a better standing at the end of the year. The electrie light plant will be installed, which will not only be a great asset to the town but will also be a good advertisement for us, The C. P. he was more than ever convinced that the single tax was the only system.

It encourages the working man to build, and the coast officials and those with whom Mr. Morfitt came into contact, were unanimous that the working man built more under the single tax than under the old system

Single tax was also an important factor in discouraging the holding of vacant land on b isiness or residentia streets for speculative purposes was also important from the fact that it encouraged better buildings, especi ally the large business blocks.
